

Sunset, sand, and seafood made Valentine's Day at Simply Fish simply wonderful!

Aruba was filled with couples seeking the ideal romantic dinner on Valentine's Day, and for many, the choice was a sunset dinner at Simply Fish, on the beach of the Marriott Resort and Stellaris Casino. When talking to the various lovers that were curled up together enjoying the sound of the surf and some simply sumptuous seafood, our roving reporter found that most were dining there for the first time, and chose the restaurant because it came highly recommended from a variety of sources.

Manhattanites Jackie and Stefan were enjoying their first Valentine's Day together, and she had heard such wonderful things from a friend about the restaurant that they decided to forgo the already paid for meal at the all-inclusive resort where they were staying for a dinner at Simply Fish. They report that they were not disappointed! They also said that the reports of the weather back home, a snowstorm that stranded travelers, made sitting by the shore, wiggling their toes in the sand an even sweeter experience!

Honeymooners Erin and Bryan Dalton of Cortland, N.Y. also heard about the restaurant from the Tripadvisor website. She reports it got such raves, that before even arriving in Aruba they decided that was where they would spend their first Valentine's Day together as husband and wife. They both gave their delicious dinner of Sea Bass a double thumbs up!

None of this was a surprise to Kathy and Ray Snider of Murrysville, PA. They are regular visitors to Aruba at this time of year, and Simply Fish is their choice as a Valentine's Day dinner spot since the restaurant opened. Kathy also revealed the secret to keeping the magic in a long-term marriage, as she also makes it a point to make this day for lovers very special by decorating their room differently each year. It could be balloons, ribbons, candies, or chocolates, and once she presented Ray with a bed full of rose petals. They both declared that spending their Valentine's Day in Aruba "Life just doesn't get any better than this."

Peter and Pauline Pretty of Toronto, Canada agree, as owners at the Marriott Ocean Club, their two weeks spent in Aruba still makes their Valentine's Day special after forty-four years of marriage.

They all agree, for a memorable Valentine's Day, it was a very simple choice!
